

finding your way to our place

On the chuff chuff: Option 1 We're less than ten minutes walk from the station, so unless your laptop's elderly we recommend a little stroll. The nearest station is Tunbridge Wells (funny that). Leave the station on the Platform 2 side, take an immediate right and cross the road using the handy pedestrian crossing. Keep heading right (Hoopers Dept store is on your left), crossing the road into the High Street.

At the end of the High Street is Pizza Express (yummy cheesecake). Cross over the road and head straight on into Chapel Place, which in no time at all ends with a little flight of steps. Turn right at the bottom of the steps then left and cross the road by the traffic lights. You should see a signpost to your right with 'The Pantiles' on it (if you don't, call us). Amble along the Pantiles until you see the Corn Exchange on your left – head down the flight of stairs and bear right down the side of the Corn Exchange. You've made it!

Option 2 Take a taxi (it's not far – but it's good if it's raining)

Using your own wheels: Assuming you've managed to make it around the M25 without taking root, come off at Junction 5 (A21 towards Hastings). After passing the Sevenoaks and Tonbridge exits, take the Tunbridge Wells (A26) exit which will take you through Southborough and then into Tunbridge Wells along St John's Road.

Carry on along St John's Road until you get to a roundabout; take the second exit (well, it's sort of straight on) and continue towards London Road, passing Kent & Sussex Hospital and then the common (look out for big rocks).

Then at the cross roads it's straight across the traffic lights (when they're green) and downhill until you curve around to the right. You'll shortly come to a second roundabout – take the first exit into Nevill Street and get ready for a right hander soon. You'll be over the pedestrian crossing before you know it, passing Warwick Park on your left. Almost opposite Warwick Park on your right are two small entrances – take the second of these down a steep incline to the gated underground car park, where you'll be met and shown to one of our designated spaces.

Have a go on the buzzer on the left-hand wall (just before the iron gates) and we'll let you in.
